

CVPR 2011 Colorado Springs

General Instructions for Tutorials/Short Courses Proposals

Tutorials/Short courses proposals are invited for the 2011 Intl. Conference on Computer Vision and Pattern Recognition (CVPR).

Important Dates

Submission deadline: October 20th, 2010

Notification of acceptance: December 15th, 2010.

Types of Tutorials/Short Courses

The tutorials/short courses may span from 3 to 6 hours. They may be regular or advanced. We will provide technical support for the presentation of the selected proposals.

1. Regular Tutorials: are targeted to students, professionals and researchers in Computer Vision, who wish to learn well-established techniques, which can be used in their work. Instructors may assume that attendees are familiar with basic notions of mathematics, numerical methods, programming, and Computer Vision.
2. Advanced Tutorials: should focus on recent developments, emerging topics and novel applications in Computer Vision related topics.

Proposals Selection

The tutorials/short courses represent an opportunity for the participants of the CVPR 2011 to acquire technical knowledge in recent achievements in Computer Vision related topics. The proposals will be judged by: relevance for the conference; potential to attract participants to the conference; originality; and qualification of the instructors in the topic of the tutorial.

The proposals should contain the following information:

1. Title
2. Type (regular or advanced)
3. Abstract
4. Motivation
5. Target audience (specify what knowledge you presume about the audience);
6. Interest for the Computer Vision community (estimate how many attendees you expect to have and the basis for such an estimation);
7. List of the topics to be presented, including: estimated duration, subtopics, pointers to relevant literature;
8. Short biography of the instructors (with full name, address, e-mail, institution, and experience in the topic of the short course / tutorial);
9. Planned material (if any) to be distributed to the participants, such as slides, images, animations, etc.

❖ The proposers shall make it clear the relationship of the proposal to any previous tutorials offered in ICCV, CVPR and ECCV in the last 3 years by these or any other researchers.

How To Submit a Proposal

Proposals should be submitted by email to Prof. Anderson Rocha at the following address anderson \(dot\) rocha \(at\) ic.unicamp.br, with subject “CVPR 2011 – Short Course/Tutorial Submission”. Please, send your proposal up to 5 pages in PDF format (preferred) or plain text only.
